In accordance with the Bail Reform Act, 18 U.S.C. § 3142(f), a detention hearing has been held. I conclude that the following facts require the detention of the defendant pending trial in this case.

Part II - Written Statement of Reasons for Detention

The law provides a series of factors I have to consider in determining whether there are conditions of release that will assure your appearance and protect the safety of the community.

The first factor is the nature and circumstances of the offense charged, including whether it is a crime of violence or involves a firearm. It does, so that is a negative factor.

The next factor is the weight of the evidence. There is a Grand Jury Indictment which is a probable cause determination, so that is a negative factor.

The next factor is your history and characteristics, which includes your physical and mental condition. There is nothing that would indicate a problem with release, so that is positive.

Family ties are positive.

Employment at the moment is negative because you do not have any employment.

The next factor is financial resources. There is no indication that you have substantial resources that would enable you to flee, so that is a positive.

Length of residence in the community is positive.

Community ties are positive.

The next factor is past conduct, which includes history relating to drug or alcohol abuse, criminal history, and record concerning appearance at court proceedings. You have had 18 driving while suspended charges, which is an indication that you do not follow the law or instructions from courts.

The next factor is whether at the time of the current offense you were on probation, parole, or other release. You were, so that is also negative.

The final factor is the nature and seriousness of the danger to any person in the community that would be posed by your release. There is no indication of real danger to the community.

Based on your record, I do not have any confidence that I could set conditions that you would follow. Your entire adult life you have ignored the law and conditions from courts when you are either released or when you are placed on probation. For those reasons, you will remain detained pending further hearing in the case.
